

2012 Goats 101 Workshops

Thanks to all who attended our Goats 101 workshops this year! At this time we have not yet scheduled the 2012 sessions. If you would like to be notified when we confirm the dates for next year, please email and let us know. We'll add you to an email list, and send a note when the dates are set.

These hands-on workshops are lots of fun, and packed with useful information. Topics will include: living quarters & fencing, maintenance care (including taking vital signs, body condition scoring, hoof trimming, the latest ideas about deworming & fecal testing, and the importance of wellness exams), nutrition & feeding, toxic plants, first aid, and common diseases & ailments (what you can do, and when to call the vet). As this class is designed for pet goat owners, we will not be covering issues specific to breeding/kidding, or milk/meat production. There will be some "hands on" sections, where everyone will get to trim hooves, take vital signs and check body condition. The class size will be limited, to allow everyone a chance to participate.
